MRS. DAMM SETS FORTH THIRTEEN POINTS OF EMPHASIS FOR 1943 PTA

Thirteen points receiving special emphasis during wartime in the program of the Parent-Teacher Association were set forth by Mrs. Frank A. Damm, of Chicago, first vice president of the association in Illinois, when she talked at college assembly Thursday morning. Mrs. Damm and Mrs. Christiana Koch of Rock Island, the third vice president in Illinois, were on the campus this week to take charge of the Seventh Annual Conference of Parents and Teachers held at S.I.U.

Reviews History of PTA
Mrs. Damm began her speech with a review of the Parent-Teacher Association, which is now forty years old, as a whole. She pointed out the setup which has a corps of national officers as well as those in each state. The states are divided into districts, of which there are thirty-one in Illinois and the districts are again divided into counties. In each district, county and city unit has its own central office. The speaker stressed the fact that the P.T.A. is essentially an organization refusing membership to no citizen, regardless of sex, race or color. She also said that the association was organized in 1857, and that from preschool up to junior college, and has functioning units on all these levels.

Would Emphasize These Points
The emphasis which Mrs. Damm and the National Officers of Parents and Teachers would make for 1943 is:

1. Cooperation with state and local authorities in civilian defense. No new programs would be initiated by the P.T.A.
2. Education. In connection with the improvement of general health and citizen morale the P.T.A. has organized nutrition classes for adults and placed additional stress on health in the school.

3. Conservation of clothing and household materials.

4. Gardens for victory.

5. Book collections for the armed forces. This was begun last winter and is still in operation.

6. Immunization campaign against communicable diseases. Although for years we have known how to prevent diphtheria, smallpox and similar diseases, many deaths still occur from them every year.

7. Prevention and control of social diseases. In connection with this comes sane sex education in the schools.

8. Use of civil local rights to control sale of liquor and narcotics.

9. Sale of defense bonds and stamps without pressure on children who will rebel if denied too many normal pleasures in wartime.

10. Maintenance of educational opportunities for elementary and secondary schools despite reductions in budgets. Educators must realize that needs of children remain the same.

11. Protection of children whose mothers work in defense plants or in the war and the Parent-Teacher Association is working.

12. Keeping up morale through schoolroom decorations.

13. Salvaging scrap for the war effort.

Perhaps the greatest necessity of all is to make parents and citizens realize the importance of training which in the war and post-war would be of use to the Parent-Teacher Association is working.

Photography Dept. Has Admirable Record For Year

Hats off to the photography department for their fine work during the past year. This department, located in the basement of Jackson Hall, has an admirable record for work accomplished since June 1, 1941. The department headed by James Harless with John Groves as chief assistant has used 5000 rolls of film, 100 slides and made 11,000 prints since last June, 1941. They have also made 1,500 photographs, which put S.I.U. in the class with the top ranking universities of the nation by having photo-lab transcripts.

Besides this long list of obvious achievements the department has handled all the photography work for the U. High yearbook including all the portraits, all the athletic pictures including portraits and all of the pictures found in the Ailyn Training School Education Bulletin which received national recognition.

James Harless, head photographer, will soon leave for South Field, where he will be stationed as an instructor.

Obelisks To Be Purchased For SINU Men In Service

Students who are in the possession of 1942 Obelisks in good condition may sell them to the school for one dollar each. It has been announced by a committee in charge of sending the books free of charge to S.I.U. men now in the armed services.

The decision is republishing the books from students willing to part with them was made after it was seen that the supply on hand was not sufficiently large to assure distribution to all the soldiers on the school's list. If an Obelisk is slightly marked up it may still be acceptable for the purposes of the committee. Those who would care to sell their yearbooks are requested to see Mr. Hubert at once in the Commerce office on third floor Main.

Decides To Appoint New Committee That Will Effect Genuine Compromise; Issue To Remain Dormant Until Fall

At a special meeting of the Council of Administration held last Tuesday afternoon, July 30, the proposed four year physical education program for all male students was voted down unanimously. Instead of the original recommendation by the committee, the Council of Administration by the vote of 5-3-1 decided to set up a committee of Council members to be appointed by President Pulliam sensibly to solve the problem. This committee which will be appointed some time next term, will endeavor to effect a genuine compromise that will achieve some of the real objectives of the whole program without taking advantage of the male students of Southern.

HANDICRAFT WORKSHOP EXHIBIT NOW ON DISPLAY IN WHEELER LIBRARY

A number of articles constructed by students in the Handicraft unit of the Workshop in Elementary Education course on campus this summer, are now being displayed in the basement of Wheeler Library. Mr. Deane Olson of the industrial education department acted as instructor for the handicraft unit, and Mr. Howard Blythe, education department, supervised the entire course.

Types of Articles on Display
Two types of objects are on display: a handsome lamp for use in weaving in the elementary school, and molded objects such as book ends, hot dish tines, pen trays, and vases. The latter type were made from a particular type of cement known as Kermex and were turned in molds made by the students or in lathe and planer.

These pieces were colored with plastic pigments before being molded and finished by sanding and paraffin polishing.

One of Many Topics
The handicraft unit was one of several undertaken in the workshop, others included paper, reading, and art. Each lasted three weeks and was supervised by one of the teachers who had particular interest in that field.

Several exhibits of articles made in industrial education classes during the first semester session will be put up next week, according to Mr. Olson.

BARTON, MAYOR AND YOUNG ATTEND CONFERENCE AT NORTHWESTERN

Dr. T. F. Barton, Dr. O. R. Young and Dr. J. R. Mayor attended a conference at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., last Friday and Saturday on adapting college courses to provide pre-induction training for students enrolled in special army or navy programs.

Officers of the army navy and air force discussed at the conference the content and method of courses in the five basic subjects for pre-induction training: physics, mathematics, astronomy, navigation, meteorology, and map interpretation. Consideration was given to devising new courses and standardizing regular courses in order that students will be adequately prepared for military service in any branch they choose.

At Southern Dr. Barton teaches physics, and Dr. Mayor teaches mathematics. Colleges and universities throughout the South Army Corps were represented.

MRS. NEELY TO SPEAK AT INSTITUTE JULY 7-9

Mrs. Julia Neely of the department of English will speak at the Institute on Teaching English, held at St. Louis University, July 7-9. Her subject will be "Correlation of English and Other Subjects."

The institute is conducted annually for the benefit of Southern English teachers in the St. Louis area.

Four Proposals for Consideration

The Council of Administration had four proposals for consideration last Tuesday: (1) the majority report of the Committee on Physical Education, Washington and Baltimore voted 13 to recommend four years of physical education for all male students or the original proposal that was voted down by the Council of Administration (same time, no votes); (2) the minority report of Schneider, Mayor and Harless, recommended a two-year compulsory physical education program with the remaining two years optional and eligible for senior college credit; (3) the proposal whereby a committee of Council of Administration members would be appointed by President Pulliam to try to effect a genuine compromise; (4) and the proposal to drop the entire matter.

Council Votes Disapproval

Disapproval was voiced by the Council of Administration on the after discussed of denying authority of the committee they themselves had set up. This committee which was supposed to have effected a compromise on the problem originally had misinterpreted its duty by arguing for a proposal that had already been voted down by the Council of Administration.

The new committee for discussion of the problem will not convene until early next fall.

U. High Takes to Air For Educational Trip

Twenty-two students of the University High school took to the air, sponsored wings in a combined educational excursion and supposed introduction to the delights of air travel last Tuesday and Wednesday, June 30 and July 1.

The students were transported in the Maunz aircraft by bus and taken for a trial spin by Fred Valentine, chief controller of the Maunz Air Service. The mixed crowd of boys and girls were obviously enthralled as most of them made a brief airplane flight over their lives. The trip included a ride of over twenty-five miles, 2,000 feet high at the average air cruising speed of 125 miles per hour. The trip was made in the C-47, which was piloted by the air service.

Thanks to the under treatment of an airplane into the group were given tickets to the roller rink which is located on the outskirts of the airport.

The trip however had another purpose other than to just provide pleasure. The airplane rides were given with the expressed purpose of making the older high school students to the advantages of CPT training.

LIGHT FROM THE DARK CONTINENT

Salem, Ill. churches, Grace Methodist and the First Christian church, both were fortunate in having visiting missionaries from Africa Sunday 27th. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Persons, supported by the Grace Methodist church, presented stereophonic slides of their work in Africa, spoke to various departments, and presented movies. Mr. Virgil E. Havens spoke at the First Christian church. He served his first term in the mission field, supervising work among the natives, teaching them to sow lumber, make bricks and build homes, schools, and churches.

FRANKLIN COUNTY BRASS

This county deserves to foot its own horn. It occupies a top flight position among Southern Illinois counties in the band campaign. Franklin county with a population of 53,127 was awarded a number of prizes participating in the payroll allotment plan only by Madison county with a population of 143,318.

ROOT BEER POLKA

Harrison Myers, Harrisburg grocery clerk, should be doing the polka now. He was named sole heir to the fortune of his uncle, Richard Hires, founder of a well known root beer bottling firm. Mr. Hires is a son of Will Hires, brother of the founder.

RIVER RISKS

Illiver authorities of Chester said a 54-foot state on the Mississippi river would not endanger the Chester waterfront. Many thousands of acres of corn land have been inundated, but damage to buildings has been limited to islands. Levees are being built in Chester, but several small farm levees have cracked about 25 miles north of this city.

"FACE LIFTING"

A red wind and blue Victory cover will offset the Southern Program booklet for the Marion County Soldiers and Sailors' Reunion. Earl W. Morris, general chairman, said June 29th. All major political candidates have indicated they will advertise in this booklet since the reunion will be the kickoff for the November campaign both for state and county. The Democratic and Republican sections will be complete.

RED BIRDS ARE BIG

The peach season opened June 24th with the picking of the Red Bird variety. Local orchard men state that the crop is not plentiful, but the size of the fruit is much larger than usual, the quality of the peaches is excellent. The orchard men reported his variety, which will be ready to pick the middle of August, are no larger than they were at picking time last year.

WAKE UP!

A day-coach was speeding swiftly through a Southern Illinois night with its sleepy people. Private X had been getting slightly inebriated in the bar. He walked his wobbly way to his seat. Private X blinked, stared around everyone was asleep. This army man gave a lusty shout "Wake Up!" that's what's wrong with you Americans, you are asleep! You jump, yawn, and stretch, quickly answered his accusation. He was right, they were sleeping on the floor in Little Egypt. Couldn't job. The camp rubber ducky is short we just sleep with one eye open until the "Zero" and "Mosserschultz" drop sleepers.

EIGHT LEGGS

James Stearns of Murphysboro discovered a "little wrangler" in his hatch three and one-half miles north of Murphysboro with four front legs, four rear legs, four ears and one eye. The "little wrangler" was picked up in alcohol and forwarded to Hitler with the suggestion that he will eventually need more legs than that to get away on.

Frank Kovalski is now getting basic training in Fort Meade, Ark. He was captain of the football team one year, was an all-state football player in 1939. Vincent Killenback, candidate for track and football at Southern, is at Gardner Field, Calif.

DANCE FESTIVAL:

What was once just a simple New England farm nine miles east of Lee, Mass., will blossom out this month with what is probably the largest crop of dancing to be found anywhere in the country this summer. The Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival Association, Inc., will present there a series of forty performances by various artists and an eight-week school, both under the direction of Ted Shawn, with the opening set for July 6th.

Mr. Shawn has been active at Jacob's Pillow for a number of years, having bought the farm in 1930 as a summer headquarters for himself and his group of men dancers. In 1934, Ted Shawn, who has developed a lively style of her own, makes a second album of piano records with drum accompaniment (Decca No. 321, three 10-inch records). The playing has a quality of innuendo, but it is by no means bloodless. Miss Shawn does not "twirl the classics" this time, she plays several popular tunes, as well as her own blues in B flat and Haze's Boogie Woogie. Her admirers need no further comment.

Designed By Franz

The theatre was designed by Joseph E. Franz, architect of the Berkshire Symphony Festival. The new 516. The stage is full size and will accommodate a large company. In real wall can be opened so that, if desirable, actual outdoor settings can be used for operatic ballets, with the audience comfortably under shelter.

Performances Start July 6

Though the school opens its first sessions on July 6, the festival performances do not start until July 8. The plan is to give a different program each week for ten weeks, with presentations of each program on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoon and Sunday evening. In general, the festival theme will be a survey of the American dance, including the source material from which it has evolved and the various foreign influences that have affected it.

The school term will run for eight weeks, terminating August 28th. On the faculty will be Bronislava Nijinska, Ted Shawn, Stoll Nissen and Joseph Pilates with a succession of visiting teachers to include Elizabeth Lenz, a member of Argentina's company, Elizabeth Wigman, La Mer, Arthur Mahoney, Margaret Hinkle, and Anne Schreyer Dueran and Ruth St. Denis.

In addition to the festival performances there will be approximately thirty lectures on the dance and twenty showings of dance films.

Large Enrollment

Fern Melcher, the business manager, reports the largest enrollment in the history of the place, with pupils coming from most of the states. A scholarship fund has been established, and the regular student body will begin to sign in on July 13th. All of which sounds like big doings in the Berkshires.

On the Record:

On your taste for the large has not waned, you have your daily two new albums devoted to the form. Marek Weber does a set of eight light Continental Tango (Columbia 330, four 10 inch records) and the style of his orchestra is genial and spacious. Panchito and his

Faculty Publications

This text in sociology has been the leader in the field of high school sociology since its publication, being used in every state in the Union. Four schools in 12 mid-western states. It has over 2,000 adoptions in the United States and has sold more than 100,000 copies. Also, it is the state adopted text in Utah and has been adopted in city schools such as Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Rochester, Syracuse, Cincinnati, Toledo, Chicago, Peoria, Fort Wayne, Flint, Des Moines, Madison, Los Angeles, San Diego, Honolulu and Birmingham.

PLAY NIGHT BRINGS OUT WOULD-BE WILLIAM TELLS

Pictured above is the House of Foley's indulging in a little archery at the annual play night held Tuesday, June 23. From the looks of things Mary Lou Hampton is about to let loose with a bull's eye.

By MOSE ZENK

Corp. R. G. Reid, a former member of the staff, finds the weekly newspaper a good way to keep in touch with campus affairs. His recent letter expresses his views on current topics being discussed pro and con at Southern.

Says P.E. is Good Thing

He writes: "My June 14th copy of The Egyptian came just a few minutes ago and as always, the first thing I turned to was the editorial page. I see that 'Egyptians' are not thinking but naturally I don't agree with everything. Especially not with P. E. on the P. E. question. I have been both student and soldier and I know what in S.I.N.T. had I been going to the army I would have been only a kid to take 1000 years of P. E. Believe me, P. E. by the time you practice with a bayonet fixed for an hour you wish you had toughened up all you could."

"I know how you feel... about getting an complete education as possible, but it's not going to do much good when the enemy beats you to a machine gun location because you aren't tough enough to get there first."

"We are fighting to preserve the luxury of thinking" is quote from C. R.'s letter for America and America's students. But in win we must be tougher physically than the enemy and from what I hear they're pretty tough."

If C. R. or anyone else wishes to battle out the P. E. issue with Corp. Reid they may wish to him at Btry "K", 75th C. A. (A.A.), Long Beach, Calif.

Letters are still pouring in to the Gift Club thinking them for Obelisks and Egyptians. Pfc. James Winkelman, Special Service School Letterman Gen. Hosp. San Francisco, Calif., says that "this year's Obelisk is one of the nicest I have ever seen."

NAVY RELEASES

Chicago—Creation of three new branch offices of Naval Officer Procurement to meet the demands of America's rapidly expanding navy was announced here today by Lt. Commander S. A. Bishop, USNR, acting director of Naval Officer Procurement in Chicago.

The new offices are in Detroit, St. Louis, and Minneapolis. Lt. Commander Donald P. Welles is office in charge of the Detroit office in the Bank Building. Lt. Commander E. J. Dick commands the St. Louis office in the Missouri-Pacific building and Lt. Commander M. A. Heffernan is head of the Minneapolis office in the Ruanke building.

The new branch offices supplement the work of the major offices of Naval Officer Procurement for the Ninth Naval District in the Chicago, Grand Central Trade Building. In addition to numerous resident officers in cities throughout the district are available for interviews and preliminary examinations of prospective Naval officers.

To fully and professionally men are actually needed by the navy at "Junior Lt. Commander" Bishop said. Applicants for administrative class positions are greatly in excess of those available he said, but many of these applicants may qualify to become specialists in the navy and navy who have operated boats for years.

Need Radar Technicians

Lt. Commander Bishop stressed the need for radar technicians, radio technicians, civil engineers, and mechanical engineers, doctors, dentists and chaplains, men previously commissioned in the navy and army who have operated boats for years.

Lt. Commander Bishop

Acting, giving the leadership "educational and professional qualifications for specialists' commissions will be given physical examinations and ordered to one of the navy's today induction schools at Great Lakes, Mich. He thinks the navy needs three men about to support two men about, generally speaking, but Lt. Commander Bishop emphasized that limited commissions for shore duty only are not wanted. A general interchange of officers about and ashore is planned wherever possible.

A decree from an Accredited college or university is required for navy officers' commissions because the navy feels all reserve officers should meet the same standards as active officers. The officers in a special course does this may be waived if the applicant has outstanding qualifications.

ALLYN BULLETIN GETS STATE-WIDE RECOGNITION

"Along the pathway of development, the child enters Allyn Training School to engage in the broader experience of living." So states the bulletin compiled and arranged by Ruby Van Trump, Ruth H. Fluts, and Mary Entsminger, all members of the training school faculty, and published recently. It pictures activities of the children from kindergarten to the sixth grade.

Wide emphasis on training for participation in a democracy, the experiences undergone by training school pupils tell in many ways. Personal, social, human relationships, economic efficiency, and civic responsibility. The Allyn building was dedicated as a training school in 1927. Before that Old Main had housed the school, and only a few teachers were affiliated with it.

Mr. Bruce Norwilt is at present director of Training Schools and Mr. W. G. Little, superintendent of the Allyn building. In addition there are fourteen faculty members whose duty it is to supervise practice teaching, study the school children and understand their manner of behavior and set up goals for living. Each child is guided along clear thinking, good work habits, and the development of skills and appreciation.

One objective of the training school is the training of beginning teachers. Observation, participation, and actual teaching are integrated and supervised. Student teachers are given the selection of educational problems and made to realize the attributes which a good teacher must possess.

The training school bulletin presents a series of pictures illustrating various points in the educational program of the school. Photographs were made by Bill Horell, former head of the photography department, and Delmar Olson of the industrial education department. An effort was made to secure pictures of everyday happenings and many were taken without the knowledge of the models. Reading, mathematics, art, history, and dramatization activities are shown in their relationship to real life experience. Physical development is stressed through the physical education program.

Especially at the present is the most of participation in a democracy emphasized. The training school has a student council and studies citizenship and history. Junior Red Cross has been organized, and students have helped in the Red Cross drive.

On the last page of the bulletin which has received favorable comment from numerous school men in Illinois and several other states is printed a picture of the hoped-for new training school which is to be built in the future.

SPIRITS CAPSIZE MINUTE-MEN 11-3-GAIN TIE FOR LEAGUE LEAD

Held down to a 3-8 tie for the first four innings, the Spirits of '76 finally burst loose in the fifth for a total of 7 runs to capsize the Minute-Men on Tuesday, 11 to 3. The seven-run rally drowned all hopes of the Minute-Men to take part in the play-off games for the next week, while the Spirits of '76, by reason of their win, gained both a tie for the league lead and also competition in the play-off series against the Carter's Aces.

Although they came up on the short end of the score, the Minute-Men had a good start in the game as Willard Nelson, lead-off man, reached second on Cutler's two-base error, third on a passed ball, and home on Roy Leitch's single. To top off the inning, John Sebastian following Leitch up to the plate, walked one over the right field fence for a tremendous home run, scoring behind Leitch.

The Spirits came right back in their own first inning to tie it up at three and three. Fligor reached first on a single and came home as Cutler scored on a double. Cramer pulled up at third as a result of Gibson's error. Charlie Pigg, next up brought Cramer in on a grounder to short which was muffed by Sebastian. Pigg later scored the third run of the inning as Gibson doubled.

Game Decided Out. Pigg. The game was decided in a decisive 11-3 win for the Spirits of '76. The Spirits' half of the fifth half led off for the Spirits with a single. Smith reached first on Fuchner's error. Hall tacked second. Cutler and Fligor both singled. Hall scored and Smith moving along to third. Cramer reached first on Gibson's error and Smith crossed the plate after Cramer took second. Pigg was purposely passed, filling the bases. McClellan and Glodich then followed up with a pair of singles and the total number of runs reached seven for the inning.

AFTERTHOUGHT
"If the Army and the Navy
Ever pass on heaven's scene
They will find the streets
All guarded by U. S. Marines."
Yes, in a place where everyone
Is decent as can be
An ordinary Marine
Would make a good M. P.
But in that violent underworld
Where turbulence has
The M. P.'s all are hand-picked
From the good old Infantry.
